Title: Improved Slidingly Engageable Fasteners and Method

Dear Mr. Brittain:

As per your request dated Jan. 21, 2004, the following is intended to explain "how new claims 48-55 are patentable over the applied references especially with respect to new method claim 48". Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Regarding New Claim 48:

"48. (new) A method of fastening two portions comprising:

Providing a first portion that includes:

a first base, and a first plurality of first islands each having at least one undercut surface spaced from said first base;

Providing a second portion that includes:

a fenestrated base with a plurality of fenestrations, and a second plurality of islands, each said island having at least one undercut surface spaced from said base opposite at least part of ones of said fenestrations so as to define a plurality of generally tapered apertures between adjacent pairs of said second islands;
